

March 12, 2026: On Reading the News with Interactive Special Effects

Since I entered politics for the Republican Party around 2021, I came to understand that the Republicans are being spied upon from top to bottom by their omnipresent and omni-(im)potent) leader, Donald 'the KKK-Klown' Chump.

After his team senselessly attacked my vehicle (several times!) in retaliation from privately speaking to my wife about something someone else said about people that are somewhat resembling the types of criticism that Donald Chump is incredibly sensitive to defending himself against, I began speaking out about the unlawful spying as a means of defending my home.

Police stopped by my house the day that I posted those signs. I showed those signs to the SAPD and still to this day, they refuse to take any reports or investigate these allegations that I am making against Donald Trump and the Republican Party of Texas.

Since then, our life has become fully absorbed into a giant spying entity that monitors our every movement as an act of 'countering' my intentions at the moment that they begin. I literally face every moment of my life now being 'countered' by an illegal entity inside of the federal government!

For example, as I write this, I have a Trump Train of cars passing by the front of my house angrily accelerating and pushing engine noises into my home as a form of constant agitation and disruption to my thoughts.

But, the real 'personality' of this team of spying losers is shown by their need to 'rev their engines' about different news articles that I come across in the daily news.

I am regularly experiencing that the government that is being administered by Donald Trump and his team of spying Nazis is monitoring and attempting to engage in my news-reading experience by aggressively amping up stories that they perceive as 'positive' or 'powerful' for their advantage with powerful car engine noises driving past my house to coincide with the story.

I have written enough now.

Donald is wildly inappropriate with his over-extensions and refuses to rein himself in.

As a law-abiding citizens of the USA that is facing a criminally over-extended government, what are my choices?

Apparently, I can either bear with their criminality and Nazi philosophy or cause further harm to my own life experience.

What a terrible choice to live with as a person that did nothing more than support American values at the time when America needed it the most.

Now, we can plainly see that America has no values and it was all just a facade of lies to install yet another war-mongering dictator to act as the 'decider' for an ultra-firm, completely unresponsive, and fully-compromised team of government agents.
